

Cage-Free Eggs at Lampsia Hellenic Hotels S.A.

Lampsia Hellenic Hotels S.A., as the owning company of a number of hotels and resorts, has been focused on operating responsibly throughout the company's history. The company has always recognized that animal welfare is an important part of safe and responsible food & product supply chain, as a result, we are committed to sourcing 100% of our eggs (shell, liquid and egg products) from cage-free sources throughout the company's managed & franchised properties by the end of 2025.

The Hotel Grande Bretagne, King George and Sheraton Rhodes Resort, as of 2019 are already part of the program and we are expecting the rest of our hotels to initiate similar programs in the near future.

Cage-Free Eggs at Marriott International

At Marriott International, we have been focused on operating responsibly throughout our company's history. We recognize that animal welfare is an important part of a safe and responsible food & product supply chain.

Marriott International is committed to sourcing 100% of our eggs (shell, liquid, and egg products) from cage-free sources throughout our global operations for all owned, managed and franchised properties by the end of 2025. This is part of a comprehensive set of goals under our Serve 360 sustainability & social impact platform. Marriott International publicly reports our progress towards this commitment. Specifically, in our most recent Serve 360 report, we shared the progress made by our managed Courtyard-branded hotels to source more than 75% of eggs from cage-free suppliers. We will continue to report our progress annually through our Serve 360 report. We will also publish our goals and major progress against those goals in multiple languages beginning in 2019.

This is a continuing endeavor across our portfolio of 30 brands and 6700 hotels and we are working closely with our suppliers and partners to achieve this goal.

Information on all of our sustainability & social impact efforts can be found on our website, along with our latest report, including information about our commitments to responsible sourcing: www.marriott.com/serve360.
